

“IN New York” Magazine
April 2014, page 14

Found Objects

John Selvest “thought long and hard” before choosing the title for his solo show, Object Lessons. Like practical examples of a principle, his works, characteristically constructed out of cards, pills and other ephemera, “are outward projections of my inner thoughts,” he says. One piece consists of 4,000 romance novels, with some spelling its title, “Forever”—a word oft-used in love stories that casts an acid comment on the paperbacks’ fate.

| Morgan Lehman, 535 W. 22nd St., 212.268.6699, Apr. 17-May 17